

Your Children Gain

THEIR earliest impressions from the kind of furniture with which your home is furnished. In your bedroom you should have bright, attractive furniture of the kind that appeals to the eye when the children wake up for the day's activities.

There is no bedroom furniture made that more successfully carries out this idea than the celebrated "Gunlocke" old ivory finished bedroom chairs, upholstered in beautifully figured cretonne, and so substantially built that they will last for generations.

When you compare the beauty of design, the strong workmanship and general attractiveness of the "Gunlocke" furniture with the prices asked for it, you will wonder how such furniture can be made at such moderate prices. This holds true of the library and living room chairs of oak, mahogany and walnut which are also made by the Gunlocke Company, and are included in our present showing of "Gunlocke" furniture.

Come and see them at our store.

B. W. Hooker & Co.

Vermont's Largest House Furnishers

TALK OF THE TOWN

See Abbott's display of suits. Universalist Easter sale and supper Wednesday, April 11.—adv.
Miss Alice Blodgett and Miss Priscilla Cole returned Saturday evening after a visit of a few days in Cabot.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Universalist Easter sale and supper Wednesday, April 11.—adv.
Ten new Andes ranges to exchange for your old stoves. Come in and get prices. E. A. Prindle & Co., 200 North Main street, Depot square.

Tone Up Your System

and be ready for summer with

Rexall Celery and Iron Tonic

$1.00 guaranteed

Rexall Orderlies

The nation's mild and pleasant laxative
10c and 25c per box

Russell's, The Red Cross Pharmacy

SPECIAL SALE

We have a shipment of candy that was sent to J. Mascott.

GOLDEN PEANUT STRAWS
HOREHOUND SQUARES
BUTTER SCOTCH
LEMON DROPS
GOLDEN PEANUT CRISPS

We obtained this shipment at a special discount and we offer them for sale at

13c a lb., 2 lbs. for 25c

Ward's Barre Candy Kitchen

Your System Needs It

When a tonic is necessary to restore the strength and build up vitality and wasted tissues in the spring, there is one that we can safely recommend to you with full confidence—

A. D. S. Beef, Iron and Wine

It is a blood and tissue builder. It is so pleasant to the taste that you would hardly suspect it of being a medicine. A telephone call will bring a bottle to your door quickly.

Price, 75 cents per bottle

Drown's Drug Store

48 North Main Street

TALK OF THE TOWN

See those house dresses at Abbott's. The moon will see you home from the dance in Howland hall to-night.—adv.
Just arrived at the Red Cross Pharmacy, a large shipment of Rexall Orderlies.

Miss Agnes A. Keith is improving from her recent sickness and is able to be out of doors a little while each day.

Don't forget to see Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "The Great Secret" at the Pavilion to-night.—adv.

Miss Christine Tubbs of Summer street returned to her home to-day after visiting friends in St. Johnsbury over the week end.

Richard E. Henderson, manager of the Pavilion theatre, returned to Barre this morning, after passing the week end in Wells River.

Warren J. Cummings and Raymond O. Wishart returned to the city Saturday, after spending several days in Boston on business.

Mrs. Albert Liberty and daughter, Irene, of Spaulding street have gone to Springfield, Mass., where they will spend a week.

The amusement committee of the I. O. O. F., M. U., will meet at the home of Mrs. Watt, 195 Washington street, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Lamont Minard of Chazy, N. Y., passed through the city last evening, while en route to Granville, where he will commence work to-day as a quarryman.

Elrick Thomas of Sherbrooke, P. Q., returned to his home to-day after visiting friends and relatives in East Barre and Granville during the past week.

Harold Haggett, who has been visiting friends in Burlington during the past week, passed through the city yesterday, while en route to his home in Brookfield.

Mrs. Mary Beckwith and Miss Vera Beckwith of Chelsea arrived in the city yesterday for a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Hodgdon of Highland avenue.

Mrs. C. V. Perry, who has been passing a week in the city as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Perry of Washington street, returned Saturday to her home in St. Johnsbury.

Mrs. W. French of South Barre passed through the city last evening while en route to her home after a visit of a week with friends and relatives in Manchester, N. H.

Mrs. Annie Holmes, who has been staying in Littleton, N. H., during the winter, is visiting friends in Barre and Montpelier before going to Sugar Hill, N. H., where she plans to spend the summer.

Postmaster George W. Gorman received a notice last evening from Boston headquarters advising him not to give the postoffice clerks any leave of absence this spring until the vacation for the clerks is due.

Mrs. J. W. Roberts and daughter, Miss Marguerite Roberts, of South Barre passed through the city Saturday while en route to their home from Boston, where they have been visiting during the past week.

Arnold Danforth of Windsor, who was a business visitor in the city during the latter part of the week, left yesterday for Northfield, where he will spend a few days visiting friends and relatives, while en route home.

Mrs. Julian C. Dimock of East Corinth will speak before the Barre Woman's club, under the auspices of the home economics department, on the subject, "Reducing the High Cost of Living," Tuesday, April 10, at 2:45 p. m.

Funeral services for Mrs. C. E. Hanson, a former resident of Barre, whose death occurred last week, were held at the home of E. J. Badger in Walden Sunday afternoon. The body will be brought to Barre over the Montpelier and Wells River railroad late this afternoon for entombment at Elmwood cemetery.

Michael J. Hamel of South Main street, who has been employed as a machinist at the Trow & Holden plant for some years, left Saturday night for Newport, R. I., where he has a position in a munitions plant at the United States naval base. Among 1,800 machinists employed at Newport by the government is William Fremer of Barre, who left the city four weeks ago.

Members of the B. M. club and lady friends to the number of a dozen assembled Friday evening at the home of Miss Katherine Phelps to remind her of her birthday, the party being a complete surprise to the hostess. The evening was pleasantly spent in games, five hundred being the game most indulged in, while a few minutes were spent in an impromptu program, consisting of piano solos and songs. At a late hour refreshments were served, Miss Annie Ahern preparing the birthday cake for the occasion.

Circolo Filodrammatico Italiano is getting ready to give another of its popular entertainments and parts have already been assigned to several amateur players who have been warmly received by local audiences in the past. The present repertoire includes "Le Mosche Bianche" ("The White Fly"), a comedy, and "La Spada di Damocle" ("The Sword of Damocles"), a drama. The plays will be presented in the opera house on the evening of Saturday, April 21, and the two casts are rehearsing regularly for the presentations. Interest in the Circolo Filodrammatico has been revived during the past season and patrons of the Italian drama are eagerly anticipating the next appearance of the company. The proceeds will be turned over to a worthy person who has been ill for a long time.

Russell Ford, a teacher in Stanstead college, Stanstead, P. Q., who is visiting his fellow teacher, Lyndol Waterman, at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Waterman of Washington street, during the Easter recess, was formerly a soldier in the Canadian contingent on the western war front in Europe, having been sent home because of injuries received in the trenches. Mr. Ford signed up with the 5th Mounted troop of Canada and after training in Canadian camps he went with his troop to England, being then sent to the front. The troop entered the trenches 900 strong and came out with 87 men. Mr. Ford's active service was during last year. While on the front Mr. Ford was blown up by a shell, being hurled 15 feet into the air. He lost the sight in one eye then and he also contracted trench rheumatism, and in addition one foot was frozen solid while he was in the trenches and it was thought at first that the foot would have to be amputated. Later the condition of the member improved and he was spared the loss of the foot. He spent more than six weeks in the trenches and was in an English hospital for eight months. Three of Mr. Ford's brothers saw service in the war. One of them was sent home, medically unfit; another was injured and is in England, and the third was killed in the battle of Ypres.

A. P. ABBOTT & CO.

A. P. ABBOTT & CO.

A. P. ABBOTT & CO.

A. P. ABBOTT & CO.

Our Mission in Store Service Equipment Is to Be Helpful to You

In our talk with our salespeople we try to impress upon them the fact that their value to us depends on the service they render you. We want you to feel when you come to our store that our salespeople are your assistants rather than our employees. Surely with their knowledge of our stocks they should be of great service in helping you make your selections. If you will ask them to be of assistance to you in making your purchases you will be rendering yourself a service and even a greater service to this store.

To the Clever Woman Who Makes the Most of What She Spends

The women of 100 per cent. smartness are the ones for whose patronage we are ever alert. With them a word or a hint goes as far as a page—at a glance they recognize the subtleties that make a coat or suit the leader in its class. And so to the tailors of New York and Cleveland we owe a world of thanks in this season of smart clothes—and so does everyone who likes to see stunning garments on stunning dresses.

The many snappy garments of individual style and smartness which we are showing surely appeal to those who want something that is new and different, something that has a little individuality in itself. These are the garments you will find here.

In this town clever garments are snapped up quickly. We realize now what we wish we had known weeks ago—then we would have bought half again as many snappy Coats and Suits as we did. We are getting new models as fast as possible at the present time.

This is the last week that we can sell you subscriptions to our New Idea Magazine at less than half the regular price. Phone in your order, or call at the store before the store closes Saturday night.

The Daylight Store

TALK OF THE TOWN

New silk dress models at Abbott's. The dance of the season to-night, Howland hall, Carroll's orchestra.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Greenwood of Chester visited friends in the city through the week end.

Cobble Hill grange will hold a sugar social and dance in grange hall Tuesday night, April 10. New sugar 15c, dance 50c. Plain doughnuts and pickles. Everybody invited.

Miss Lewmina Rickert, who has been passing the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Rickert of Tremont street, has returned to Middlebury, where she is a student at Middlebury college.

All Rebekahs and Odd Fellows and their friends are invited to Odd Fellows' hall, Gordon block, on Monday evening, April 9, at 8 o'clock, to hear "How That Story Grew." Cards, dancing and refreshments to follow. Admission, 10c.

Flag poles of commanding height have been raised over the roofs of Barclay Bros' granite plant in the south end and the Bennett garage on Jefferson street.

Over the stonewall the colors are to be flung to the breeze and from almost any point in Batchelder's meadow as well as along the heights the flag will be plainly visible. Employees of the garage erected a flag staff at the southwest corner of the building and unfurled the national banner Saturday. A flag of comfortable dimensions has been ordered for Hotel Barre to replace the much frayed banner that has been used since the hostelry was built.

Arthur Barber, a Richardson road farmer, kept open house to a large number of Barre people Sunday, when the woods on the Richardson place, so called, were alive with maple sugar seekers. Many were entertained at a big sugaring-off in the Barber farmhouse in the afternoon and afterward they were given the freedom of the sugar orchard while Mr. Barber and his hired hands bent their efforts toward disposing of a day's accumulation of sap. The cold spell has put a temporary quietus on the industry but canny farmers are leaving their buckets where the sap will flow in anticipation of another run or two.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

TALK OF THE TOWN

See the new coats at Abbott's. The dance of the season to-night, Howland hall, Carroll's orchestra.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Greenwood of Chester visited friends in the city through the week end.

Cobble Hill grange will hold a sugar social and dance in grange hall Tuesday night, April 10. New sugar 15c, dance 50c. Plain doughnuts and pickles. Everybody invited.

Miss Lewmina Rickert, who has been passing the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Rickert of Tremont street, has returned to Middlebury, where she is a student at Middlebury college.

All Rebekahs and Odd Fellows and their friends are invited to Odd Fellows' hall, Gordon block, on Monday evening, April 9, at 8 o'clock, to hear "How That Story Grew." Cards, dancing and refreshments to follow. Admission, 10c.

Flag poles of commanding height have been raised over the roofs of Barclay Bros' granite plant in the south end and the Bennett garage on Jefferson street.

Over the stonewall the colors are to be flung to the breeze and from almost any point in Batchelder's meadow as well as along the heights the flag will be plainly visible. Employees of the garage erected a flag staff at the southwest corner of the building and unfurled the national banner Saturday. A flag of comfortable dimensions has been ordered for Hotel Barre to replace the much frayed banner that has been used since the hostelry was built.

Arthur Barber, a Richardson road farmer, kept open house to a large number of Barre people Sunday, when the woods on the Richardson place, so called, were alive with maple sugar seekers. Many were entertained at a big sugaring-off in the Barber farmhouse in the afternoon and afterward they were given the freedom of the sugar orchard while Mr. Barber and his hired hands bent their efforts toward disposing of a day's accumulation of sap. The cold spell has put a temporary quietus on the industry but canny farmers are leaving their buckets where the sap will flow in anticipation of another run or two.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

Miss Margaret Barclay of Park street, a graduate of the training school for nurses in the Waltham, Mass., hospital, has been engaged by the school commission to take charge of medical inspection in the city schools, as authorized by the voters at the last March meeting. Statutory provisions for the inspection give the selection of a physician and a registered nurse. Miss Barclay assumed her new duties to-day with the reopening of the city schools after a vacation of a week. In most towns where the electorate registered favorably on the inspection issue, the medical service will not be introduced until the fall term, but locally it was thought best to begin the inspections at once.

ST. ALBANS BUSINESS MAN.

Leonard J. Martin Died After Three Weeks' Illness.

St. Albans, April 9.—Leonard James Morton, one of the most prominent business men of the city, died suddenly yesterday. He had been ill about three weeks and during the past week he developed a serious heart condition. Though he had been in a serious condition the end was not expected.

Mr. Morton was born in Georgia Jan. 11, 1856, eldest son of the late Henry G. and Hannah L. (Blake) Morton. He was educated in the public schools of his native town and at an early age entered the dry goods business which was to become his life career. For more than 40 years Mr. Morton was engaged in business in St. Albans. He was instrumental in organizing the Franklin County Savings Bank & Trust company, of which he was a director at the time of his death. He was also instrumental in organizing the St. Albans Business and Professional Men's association and the Franklin County Farm bureau and was active in the work of those organizations.

September 17, 1879, Mr. Morton married Emma S. Leonard of Fairfax. They had one daughter, Bessie L., wife of Stephen S. Cushing. The wife and daughter survive.

Mr. Morton was a communicant of St. Luke's Episcopal church of this city. He was a public-spirited citizen, interested in the general improvement and development of the community in which he lived.